Business Recommendations

- Increase inventory and marketing before the holiday season to ensure that the business gets maximum revenue.
- Since the sale is low in Jan and Feb, there should be targeted promotions during Jan and Feb.
- To further improve customer retention, business should consider introducing loyalty programs and offers.
- There is scope to improve average order value by upselling the product and offering free shipping above certain order value.
- The business can improve the product and category performance by promoting best selling products and also reviewing the root cause of low selling product. It can be due to low quality, marketing or pricing.
- Business should focus analysing the root cause behind the cancellations and returns. It can be done by adding more details in product description and improving quality control.
- Improve marketing and campaign in low performing regions rather than only focusing on China and US.
